CANADIAN THEATRE HISTORY

In the past few years, there have been many complaints about the lack of cultural knowledge and awareness displayed by Canadians. A study, for example, conducted in six high schools in and around Vancouver, was cited in the spring as evidence of the ignorance of Canadian students about their country and its literature, history and politics. Mere information about such things is not, however, culture. Culture and an awareness of culture is more like an understanding, a sense, a feeling which goes beyond the possession of particulars, but to get beyond the particulars of information, one must have that information initially.

A project is underway at the University which will provide some of the raw information whereby literary, cultural, and social historians can begin to write the history of early Canadian theatre. Gerald McCaughey of the Department of English is heading a research project which is accumulating facts about the theatre in eastern Canada up to the end of the nineteenth century. This information will provide a pool of facts which will help historians to fill in the gaps in Canadian theatre and cultural history.

The information is taken from old newspapers primarily—like the old Montreal Gazette and Herald—and then is stored by a computer. This summer, Professor McCaughey has had the assistance of six undergraduate students who were kept busy reading microfilms of these old newspapers. The computer lists the year, month, and day of a given play's performance, its title, the names of the actors, the theatre or place it was performed, and the name of the paper from which the notice of the play was taken along with the date and page number of the paper. Reviews of plays are being xeroxed for a separate file. Often, these reviews are very good, and give information about audience reaction and the general effects of certain plays and actors (like the notorious Sarah Bernhardt) on the community.

Professor McCaughey became involved in this undertaking as an offshoot of his interest in the performance of Shakespearian plays in early Canada. He found that there was very little comprehensive information about early theatre history in this country, and he began to investigate the Canadian theatre situation in general. He decided that the best means of handling the facts was the computer, partly because of the sheer quantity of information and partly because of the ease with which the computer can update and make amendments as new information comes to light. Before he began to work on this project, Mr. McCaughey had no acquaintance whatsoever with computers. Thanks to Vic Yanda of Computing Services, however, he was able to learn to master the computer, and so set to work.

The choice of what sorts of facts to include in the information pool is determined mainly by the sort of information which is available. The facts available include such things as dates, places and names. When these things are programmed, the computer can then organize and arrange them, and can also scan the material to come up with all sorts of interesting information. For example, the computer can tell you that Shakespeare's King Lear was not performed in Fredericton during the years 1845-1860, but that during the same period, the melodrama Luke the Labourer was performed three times in 1845, once in 1852, 1853, and 1860. We can also find out that usually two plays were staged at each performance. Other melodramas which played on the same days as "Luke" were The Disagreeable Surprise, The Spectre Bridegroom, and Shocking Events. Such facts, in their raw form, have the same appeal as, say, the Guinness Book of Records. One of the dangers of having information of this kind at such ready disposal might be the temptation to become involved in trivial investigations, but guarding against that is the responsibility of the individual scholar, not of Professor McCaughey.

The information, such as the comparison of Shakespearean plays to melodramas, can be a useful starting point for important generalizations about the cultural life of early Canada. King Lear, for example, was performed in Montreal four times between 1820 and 1826 alone. (As a sidelight, the great Shakespearean actor Edmund Kean starred in the play of Monday, February 27, 1826.) From data of this kind, the cultural or social historian can begin to make certain generalizations about the relative sophistication of the performing arts and the societies they performed for in Montreal compared to Fredericton. There is, of course, some difficulty in making these generalizations—which will be qualitative judgments—from the mass of quantitative material available. Nevertheless, generalizations will be made (and of course they will be made from more information than a few dates and names) and they will be useful in pointing out patterns of cultural development in Canada, thus beginning to tell us where we are now from where we have been.

Professor McCaughey's project is designed to give the Canadian historian hitherto scattered or inaccessible information which can help in the piecing together of the history of drama in Canada. And what the history of drama tells us can then be used as the raw information from which other sorts of generalizations about Canadian life and culture can be made. To make the facts more readily available, Professor McCaughey and Frank Bueckert, Professor of Drama, L.W. Conolly, Professor of English, P.L. Freeman, a law librarian, and E.S. Neils, a retired Edmonton businessman have founded the Institute of Canadian Theatre History. This group will sell theatre information to interested parties at cost, and its members will ultimately contribute more information to the pool of data. They are not providing history itself, but the raw material of history—the computer and the Institute of Canadian Theatre History have done the initial work, but the final work, the writing of our history, will be the responsibility of human scholars as it always has been.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

The Board of Governors and its Executive Committee met September 5, 1975.

OPERATING BUDGET APPROVED

The 1975/76 University Operating Budget providing for net expenditures of $95,605,500 has been approved by the Board of Governors. This represents a 20.5 percent increase over last year's figure. Salary increases, which amounted to approximately 15 percent for academic staff and 26 percent for non-academic staff, account for 75 percent of the additional funds provided. The remaining 25 percent had to cover inflationary increases to the cost of goods and services and workload increases. Less than 3 percent was available for additional staff and other expenses related to higher enrolments. The Board also received the University financial statements for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1975.

AMENDMENTS TO FACULTY HOUSING LOAN POLICY

Revisions to this policy make it possible for a faculty member to make advantage of the Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan. The faculty member can now place title to the family residence in the name of his/her spouse, and still qualify for a faculty housing loan guarantee from the University.

CHANGES TO POLICY ON REMOVAL ALLOWANCES

The Board of Governors has approved the following changes in the policy governing removal allowances for full-time faculty members, administrative and professional officers and professional librarians:

- The present practice of tying the removal allowance of a new appointee to his salary level has been replaced by a removal allowance determined by the distance between the appointee's present domicile and Edmonton;
- When a private automobile is used, the appointee may claim 10 cents per mile as compared with the present allowance of 5 cents per mile; and
- Lodging bills and meals to a maximum of seven days may be claimed upon arrival as compared with the present maximum of three days.

ADMISSION TO QUOTA FACULTIES AND SCHOOLS

Guidelines proposed by General Faculties Council for making citizenship and residence the criteria for preferential treatment in admission to quota faculties and schools were approved by the Board on a trial basis. After the two-year trial period which commences in the fall session of the 1976-77 academic year, the guidelines will be re-examined. These guidelines, which will apply only to those faculties and schools for which quotas have been approved by the Board, are as follows:

1. In quota programs preference may be given by the University to:
 - (a) Canadian citizens
 - (b) Residents of Alberta, Canada, or Provinces or Territories for which special arrangements exist.
2. To gain preference under 1 (b), residence in the specified area is required for a continuous period of two years prior to September 1 of the year admission is sought.
3. Periods of attendance as a full-time student in a post secondary institution will not count as residence for this purpose.
4. The two-year residence period shall not be considered broken where the Admissions Committee is satisfied that the applicant

The Stone Owl

READ ANY GOOD BOOKS LATELY?

The library book essential to his history course tucked under his sweater, the would-be book-napper moved toward the exit point of Rutherford Library. Although a guard was there, he was not checking people. This, thought the student, should be a snap. As he passed through the exit, a soft gong sounded and the turnstile locked. The student was stopped cold. The guard looked at him and asked, "Did you perhaps forget to check out a book?"

This incident is imaginary, but it already has been enacted several times at Rutherford Library, where a new detection system went into operation this week. Known as the "3M Tattle-tape" system, it detects any books or periodicals which have not been charged out in the proper way. How? It works on the principle of "sensitizing." All books and periodicals in the library have been treated in such a way that only by checking them out can they be "desensitized" and thus not activate the chime. Anyone trying to take a book out which has not been desensitized will find that the furthest point of advance is the exit point itself.

In its first few days of testing, the system has caught an astonishing number of potential culprits. Roy Barter, a library administrator who supervised the installation of the system, told of a priest who checked a number of books out one evening recently, went to the exit, had his books checked, and proceeded through the new system. The gong sounded and the gate locked. It was then discovered that the priest had tucked a small library book in his back pocket. Of course he was given the benefit of the doubt; he simply had "forgotten" about it.

That's fair enough. Mr. Barter says that anyone who produces a book not checked out at the first interrogation will be let go, provided he produces University identification. If not, Campus Security will be called. It will, in turn, call in city police if necessary. At the same time, Mr. Barter said nothing about repeat offenders, people who will do anything to see if they can defeat the system. No doubt some way will be found to deal with them.

Like any servile machine, the tattle-tape system is fallible. (The actual method of sensitizing and desensitizing must remain a general secret, we're afraid. Who knows what sort of mischief could result if the whole world knew?) Sometimes the system will detect a sensitized book even when it has been desensitized. It occasionally will do the same thing even when there isn't a book—apparently one type of briefcase and a particular make of brassiere are "sensitive" in the same way as the treated books. When such an incident occurs, no end of embarrassment results.

One hapless borrower recently had to go through the system three times to get out, and she had done nothing wrong. In our test of the system one book which had been desensitized set off the alarm twice in a row. "Hopefully," says Mr. Barter, "we'll get the bugs out. We're told by 3M that the mistake rate is about two in a thousand."

Perhaps the embarrassment potential of the tattle-tape system could be put to good use—few people wish to draw attention to themselves in a crowded situation, especially if there is a chance that they've done something wrong. However, to maximize such embarrassment potential, the gong (or chime) must be made much louder. As it is now, it is barely audible beyond ten feet of the exit point. It should be made as dramatic as a fire alarm or as a sprinkler system or as a millionth customer celebration. Knowledge that such a fate awaits would deter many a potential book-napper.

We're also tempted to think of other uses for the system, or at least its principle. Professors could somehow sensitize their students at the beginning of the term (perhaps it could be done at Part 5 of the Registration procedure), and desensitize those who attend regularly (we leave the mechanics of this scenario to those with minds more imaginative than ours), while delinquents would remain sensitized and thus set off an alarm when finally they do make an appearance. Or something like that.

Conversely, perhaps professors could be sensitized in much the same way at the beginning of the term, and the delinquents among them shamelessly exposed when they set off an alarm. It works both ways.

Equally valid possibilities exist for parking, pedestrian crossings, eating facilities, and so on. Within a few years perhaps the entire University community could be sensitized and desensitized according to its function at a given time. The potential is truly fascinating.

In the meantime, the new system at Rutherford actually exists, and it is expected to cut book losses due to theft or forgetfulness dramatically. Trent University in Peterborough reported that after eight months of use, the system cut book losses by slightly more than two-thirds. Other libraries have reported similar results. An additional benefit is the speed with which a borrower—an honest one, that is—can leave the library. Students and professors with large, well-used briefcases or handbags can luxuriate in the knowledge that all contents thereof need not be removed upon exiting. A final benefit, linked to the first, is that borrowers can assume safely that a book not on the shelves is in circulation, not lost or stolen, and will soon show up on the shelves again.

Hopefully the novelty of the "tattle-tape" system will wear off soon. Until that time we can expect numerous borrowers to "try it out." Or at least that's the excuse we might get from the individual who, in effect, "rings its chimes."

It might be wise simply to watch someone else try the system, then laugh and point when he/she gets caught. Better yet, simply check out: all of your books.

JOHN M. HAGEN 1923 - 1975

John M. Hagen, Clinical Lecturer in Anaesthesiology, accidentally drowned while scuba-diving in Banff National Park on August 30. Dr. Hagen was born in Dunfermline, Fife, Scotland, where he received his pre-university education. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1947, having earned an MB and ChB. He emigrated to Canada in 1955, working first in Aklavik, NWT, and then at the Camsell Hospital in Edmonton. He joined the staff of the University of Alberta Hospital in 1958, becoming a Clinical Lecturer four years later. He had been actively involved in both undergraduate and graduate training since 1963.

VISITORS

■ T.G. Reeves, Research Officer with the Department of Agriculture at the Rutherglen Station in Victoria, Australia, visited the Department of Plant Science and gave a seminar on crop development studies in Victoria, Australia.

PEOPLE

- Herman Tennesen, Professor of Philosophy, has been elected to the Council of the Inter-University Centre of Post-Graduate Studies, Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia. Professor Tennesen has also been invited to join the staff of the Centre for the 1976-77 session.
- Rene Day, Assistant Professor, School of Nursing, recently returned from two years study at the University of Hawaii, during which time she was elected to the Phi Kappa Phi Society and was chosen to the "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."
- Peter A. Schouls, Chairman of the Department of Philosophy, during a three-week visit to the Republic of South Africa, led informal discussion sessions at the University of South Africa, Pretoria (UNISA), at the University of Stellenbosch, at the ("colored") University of the Western Cape, at the (Indian) University of Durban-Westville, at the Rand-Afrikaans University (RAU) in Johannesburg, and at the University of Pretoria. More formal events included two periods of lectures at RAU, and a session at UNISA for staff, graduate students, and members of the Philosophy Departments of the Universities of Pretoria, Witwatersrand, Rand-Afrikaans, and Potchefstroom.
- Dirk Schaeffer, Assistant Professor of Psychology, will be hosting a program on CKUA entitled "The Colors of Anyhow" on Saturdays at 5 p.m., beginning September 6.

■ Percy Henley, who retired from the University staff in the Department of Genetics on August 31 after more than thirty-one years as a University employee, has asked us to print the following:

"In appreciation of the recent retirement party held in my honor, I wish to thank you one and all."

■ Benita Fifield, Associate Professor and Chairman of the Occupational Therapy Division of the School of Rehabilitation Medicine, and her husband, Orville Fifield, have been invited to work as group facilitators at a seminar on Human Sexuality of the Disabled Adult to be held September 18 to 20 in Minneapolis.

■ R. Ponnappalli, Professor of Mathematics, presented a paper on vector deficiency and applications at the joint meeting of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics, American Statistical Association, and the Biometric Society conference held in Atlanta, Georgia in August.

NOTICES

SAUL GELLERMAN

Saul Gellerman will conduct a seminar for the Department of Extension October 24. The seminar, entitled "A Day With Saul Gellerman" will include a number of films and discussion of particular interest to management personnel. The registration deadline is September 23 and the fee is $75 including luncheon and materials. Registration will be held in 228 Corbett Hall. To obtain further information call 432-5066 or 342-5067.

SABBATICAL LEAVE

The following notice has been received from Brian McDonald, Assistant to the President. Applications for 1976-77 sabbatical leave should be submitted, through department chairmen to deans and directors, no later than October 10, 1975. (It may be, however, that individual departments, faculties, and schools may have earlier deadlines. It is suggested that faculty members contact their department chairman, dean, or director in this regard.) A faculty member with tenure is eligible for a year's sabbatical after serving the University for six years, or after serving for six years following a previous period of leave for which financial assistance was provided by the University; full-time service at another university immediately prior to appointment at this University may be accepted to a maximum of two years of the total qualifying period of six years.

A faculty member with tenure is eligible for a half-year sabbatical after serving the University for three years or after serving for three years following a previous period of leave for which financial assistance was provided by the University. Service at another institution does not qualify in half-year sabbaticals.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from Mr. McDonald, Office of the President, telephone 432-4955.

EDMONTON RECORDER SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Edmonton Recorder Society will be held on Friday, September 19 at 8 p.m. in the Strathcona Baptist Church, 83 Avenue and 104 Street. Groups will perform. Old and new members are welcome. Bring your recorder.

AFTERNOON ORAL FRENCH

The Department of Extension is offering an Oral French course for adults who are free in the afternoons. This is an intensive beginners' course which requires no previous knowledge of French. The class will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. commencing September 15. Registrations are being accepted in 228 Corbett Hall. The fee for 25 sessions is $70.

MANAGEMENT OF TIME

The Department of Extension is offering a two-day seminar in the "Management of Time" on September 16 and 17. The seminar is for managers, and will cover such areas as the analysis of time problems, concepts of time and the management of time, the techniques of project planning, and the methods of saving time through written communications and telephone usage.

The instructors are Robert A. Schulz and Henry G. Vogel, both Professors of Business, University of Calgary. Registrations are accepted in 228 Corbett Hall. The cost of the course is $95 and includes lunch and materials. Additional information can be obtained by calling 432-5067 or 432-5066.

SATURDAY MOVEMENT EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Department of Educational Services of the Faculty of Physical Education is offering Saturday morning movement classes for children between the ages of two and eight.

Fall classes begin on September 20 in the Education Gymnasium. The fee per session is $10. For further information and registration please call 432-3652.

CHAMBER MUSIC

The Edmonton Chamber Music Society is now offering season memberships for its 1975-76 subscription series which opens October 8. Season tickets can be obtained at the Department of Music, 3-82 Fine Arts; in the box office in HUB; at Canadiana Gifts, 10414 Jasper Avenue; or by mail from the Society at No. 1007 8315 105 Street. As there are no single admissions to Society concerts, admission is by season ticket only. The cost is $15 for six concerts which includes one guest pass. Special rates are available for fulltime students and senior citizens at $6.

"STAFF REP" EDITOR

The Non-Academic Staff Association requires an editor for its monthly publication, the Staff Rep. Duties and responsibilities include such things as attending meetings and objectively reporting on them, preparing and assembling copy material, doing layout, and writing one editorial per issue. The salary is $100 per issue. Applications should be made to the N.A.S.A. Office, 841 General Services Building by September 15.

GSA ANNUAL OPEN DART TOURNAMENT

Competition in the GSA Annual Open Dart Tournament will begin on Friday, September 19 at Grad House. Featured again this year will be the O'Keefe Shield and the usual prizes. EXHIBITIONS AND PLAYS

Edmonton Art Gallery

Until 1 October. "Canadian Painting in the Thirties," a travelling exhibition organized by the National Gallery of Canada displays work by such artists as A.Y. Jackson, Emily Carr, David Milne, Goodridge Roberts, John Lyman, Paraskeva Clark and others.

Until 26 September. Exhibition of works by Calgary artist J.D. Turner, a close associate of the Group of Seven, featuring oils and watercolor sketches of rural Alberta subjects. 15 September to 15 October. "A Child of Six Could Do It," a collection of cartoons about modern art, organized by the Tate Gallery, London.

18 September to 15 October. "What is Art Nouveau?" This exhibition, organized by the Art Gallery, uses turn-of-the-century domestic items such as lampshades, vases and paper knives to examine the characteristic art nouveau motifs: stylized vegetation, rhythmic "whip lash" curves, languid maidens, and iridescent glass.

Provincial Museum

Continuing. "Documentary Heritage," a long-term exhibition displaying valuable manuscripts and documents in the Provincial Archives of Alberta. Archives Gallery.

Continuing. "Ukrainian Churches in Alberta," a selection of paintings of Ukrainian churches by Parasia Iwanec.

Until 26 October. "North from Blatchford Field," an exhibition of photographs, engines, flight jackets, and equipment tracing the history of Edmonton's Industrial Airport. Feature Gallery 2.

Northern Light Theatre

Until 19 September. Cecile or a School for Fathers by Jean Anouilh. Curtain time: 12:10 p.m. Extra showing at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Edmonton Art Gallery, downstairs. Admission $1.50. Food can be purchased in the lobby, courtesy of the Hot Box Restaurant.

Citadel Theatre

Opening 13 September. Sherlock Holmes directed by and starring John Neville, with Moya Fenwick, Walter Kaasa, and Graham McPherson. Citadel Theatre, phone 424-2828.

OFF-CAMPUS POSITIONS

Professor or Professorial Fellow Economics

The Australian National University

Applications are invited from suitably qualified persons for the appointment to the above position in the Department of Economics, Research School of Pacific Studies. The fields of study in the Department are the theoretical and applied problems of economic growth and trade; primary interests are in the economic development of the countries of South-East Asia (especially Indonesia), the Pacific Islands (especially New Guinea) and China, and in Australia's economic relations with these three countries and with Japan. Salary: not less than $A23,569 per annum for a Professor, and not less than $A22,051 for a Professorial Fellow. ($A1 = $US1.28). Tenure: Professor and Professorial Fellow to retiring age (65 years).

Applications: to G.E. Dicker, Academic Registrar, The Australian National University, PO Box 4, Canberra, ACT, 2600, Australia. Closing date: September 30, 1975.

Reader or Lecturer in Anthropology Lecturer in Prehistory

The Australian National University

Appointments to the following new posts in the Department of Prehistory and Anthropology will be made if sufficient funds are allocated to the University for the 1976-78 triennium. The situation should be clarified by early September 1975. Salary: Reader $A20,202 per annum; Lecturer $A11,655 to $A15,645 per year. ($A1 = $US1.28). Fields of study: applications are invited from the whole field of social anthropology, but experience in South-East Asia would be an advantage. Possible fields of interest are anthropological approaches to the study of socialization. Applicants in prehistory should be experienced preferably in both "stone age" archaeological field techniques and in prehistoric art. Tenure: Lecturer is appointed for three years, with the possibility, after review, for re-appointment to retiring age. Applications: G.E. Dicker, Academic Registrar, The Australian National University, PO Box 4, Canberra, ACT, 2600, Australia. Closing date: October 13, 1975.

Research Associate

Social Science Research Council of Canada

The Social Science Research Council of Canada has a vacancy for a Research Associate as early as October 1. Duties: policy analysis, particularly of social science activities in Canada, management of research projects, co-ordination of symposia, workshops, and conferences, and professional assistance to the Standing Committees of the Council. Qualifications: background in one of the social sciences at the MA or PhD level together with graduate training in quantitative and statistical methods. French and English fluency is required. Salary: negotiable in the $13-16,000 range. Applications: curriculum vitae and the names of three referees should be submitted to The Executive Secretary, Social Science Research Council of Canada, 151 Slater Street, Suite 415, Ottawa, Ontario K1P 5H3. Closing date: September 19, 1975.
